

Educating Kids For Life

Because you are someone who values our young people and their future, continue reading this now.

At TAG, we are seeking donations to fund a vital workshop aimed at addressing a deeply concerning issue: the rise of school shootings and their profound impact on students, teachers, and families. This violence doesn't just affect those involved firsthand; it ripples through entire communities, leaving lasting scars on those who witness it.

The core of this issue lies in emotional management. Young people who lack coping skills and emotional regulation are more vulnerable to anger, frustration, and, in extreme cases, violence. Sadly, schools often don't provide the tools students need to master their emotions and navigate life's challenges constructively.

Our workshops are designed to fill this gap. We teach students how to manage stress, handle anger, build emotional resilience, and develop self-control. These skills are crucial not just for preventing violence, but for fostering a safe, supportive, and positive learning environment.

With your donation, you can help equip young people with the life-saving skills they need to manage their emotions and prevent violence in schools. Together, we can make a lasting difference and create a safer, brighter future for everyone involved.

I am convinced that I am the best person to solve these problems because I have both the knowledge and experience to teach kids with differing learning styles and different motivational filters backgrounds and cultures. These strategies also dramatically improve discipline when they go to their classrooms.

Experience has taught me that I have a gift for reaching young people. Especially, those considered at high-risk. So, I am asking for your contribution.

Sincerely,
